June and July 2027

Featuring BDASC Summer Camps Chapter Days and Support for all South Carolina Summer Camps for Teens and Kids living with Bleeding Disorders

Supporting South Carolina Summer Camps for Kids and Teens Living with Bleeding Disorders

The Importance of Summer Camps for Children with Bleeding Disorders

For many children, summer camp is a cherished rite of passage—a place to explore, grow, and create lifelong memories. But for children and teens living with bleeding disorders or other chronic conditions, traditional camps can often pose medical and physical challenges that limit participation. The Bleeding Disorders Association of South Carolina (BDASC) believes every child deserves the chance to experience the joy, freedom, and confidence that summer camp brings.

Our specialized summer camps provide a safe and medically supported environment where campers can learn to manage their condition, build lasting friendships, and gain independence. With trained medical professionals on-site and programming designed around their unique needs, these camps empower young people to embrace life fully—proving that a diagnosis should never define their limits.

Summer camp is more than just fun for children—it's an opportunity to build confidence, independence, and lifelong friendships. For children and teens with bleeding disorders and other disabilities, attending a traditional camp often isn't possible due to medical complexities and safety concerns.

That's why the Bleeding Disorders Association of South Carolina (BDASC) is proud to sponsor Summer Camp & Chapter Days and to introduce Camp CoAg in partnership with our state's Hemophilia Treatment Centers (HTCs) and Prisma Health. This new summer camp is scheduled for June 14 to June 18, 2027. It will be hosted by Camp Cole in Columbia.

Together, we are creating safe, inclusive, and medically supported camp environments exclusively for youth living with bleeding disorders across South Carolina.

Our camps provide opportunities for children and teens to:

- Experience the joys of summer camp in a safe, medically supervised setting
- Build independence in managing their condition
- Develop leadership and advocacy skills
- Connect with peers who share similar challenges and experiences

BDASC also offers gas and travel assistance if funded to families who need financial support for transportation to and from camp, ensuring that every child who wishes to attend has the opportunity to do so.

While product and services marketing at summer camps is not permitted, sponsors receive recognition for their charitable support in all BDASC communications, publications, and verbal acknowledgments. Sponsors may also participate through approved volunteer service opportunities at camp events.

Sponsorship Opportunities
